

Adam Lester

Americas Head of Strategy & Business Transformation
J.P. Morgan Asset Management

Adam leads Strategy in the Americas for J.P. Morgan Asset Management, where he works with the CEO and operating committee to define the strategic direction of the business and execute against major strategic initiatives. Prior to J.P. Morgan, Adam was a consultant at McKinsey & Company, where his clients were primarily financial services companies and law firms. Adam started his career at Lehman Brothers, where he helped launch what became the core private equity platform at Neuberger Berman.